0. How to use this document

Purpose: Give a coding agent a reliable, traceable source-to-scene specification for a respectful, action-oriented game about Bhagavan Kalki. This document is a curated, verified research and implementation brief, not a critical edition or a complete reproduction of all 18 Mahapuranas.

Reliability tags

A = verified principal witness (Bhagavata, Vishnu or Agni Purana); B = Kalki Purana expanded account (a later Vaishnava Upapurana); C = epic parallel (Mahabharata and related); G = game-only adaptation (must never be presented as a Sanskrit verse or scriptural fact); U = unverified.

- Cite every cutscene event in the internal content schema by source ID and location; when dialogue is newly composed, mark ADAPTED DIALOGUE - NOT A VERSE.
- Use the core Purana layer to lock basic facts, the expanded Upapurana for sequence and character-rich story, and game design for controls, levels, cameras and pacing.
- No precise real-world birth date, current politician, present-day people, religion or ethnic community is identified by these prophecies. Do not introduce one.
- Use one transliteration standard (IAST). Do not merge Kali (the personification of the dark age) with goddess Kali.
- Protect ordinary inhabitants and avoid making caste, religion, ethnicity or nationality into enemy detection criteria. The text has historically polemical sections; see section 10.

1. Textual authority, authenticity and dating

Authenticity in the traditional sense: The received Kalki Purana is an actual Sanskrit Vaishnava narrative circulating in manuscript and printed editions. It is treated as a late Upapurana by scholars, not a Mahapurana. However, it is not uniformly included in historical lists of eighteen Upapuranas, and manuscripts differ in chapter numbering. This is distinct from claiming that it is an early, uniformly fixed Purana. [\[H1\]](#) [\[H3\]](#)

Manuscript caution: Hazra cites Bengali-script manuscripts with continuous chapter numbering alongside editions split into three amshas: 7 + 7 + 21 = 35 chapters. He lists a copied manuscript dated Saka 1726 (1804 CE). Dating hypotheses vary: Bhatt argues for a possible composition around the late twelfth/early thirteenth century from literary clues; other estimates place it later. Composition date is not securely established. [\[H1\]](#) [\[H3\]](#)

Author attribution: Some printed editions attribute the work to Vyasa as a matter of traditional scriptural attribution; that label does not independently prove the historical composition date or authorship. A coding agent should tag the work as "traditionally ascribed / later extant version", not "verified autograph of Vyasa". [\[K1\]](#) [\[H1\]](#)

Edition note: A scanned Sanskrit/Hindi print and Hazra's synoptic description show textual and numbering variation. The 35-chapter map is keyed to Hazra's three-amsha structure. For narrated Sanskrit, proofread each line against the chosen print image. [\[K1\]](#) [\[H1\]](#)

Primary-claim hierarchy

Tier	Evidence	Production instruction
A	Bhagavata / Vishnu / Agni passages, with exact location	Use as narrative constraints, not as guaranteed modern geographic data.

Tier	Evidence	Production instruction
B	Expanded Kalki Purana narrative, edition noted	Build story chapters. Mark features as later expansion.
C	Mahabharata Vana-parva parallel	Use for literary context, with edition-sensitive chapter numbers.
G	Mechanics, enemy AI, visuals, scripts and quest objectives	Invent only as explicit adaptation; never invent a citation.

2. Core cross-Purana narrative - invariant facts

- Kalki appears at the difficult yuga-sandhi, where Kali Yuga gives way to Krita (Satya) Yuga. [B1] [B3] [V1] [A2]
- His father is Vishnuyashas; his birthplace is the village Shambhala. [B1] [B3] [V1]
- He is associated with a swift horse called Devadatta and a sword. Horse color is not specified in Bhagavata 12.2.19-20; a white horse is traditional visual convention and should be so labelled. [B3]
- The primary military opponents are portrayed as predatory rulers/robbers hiding under the trappings of kingship. [B1] [B3]
- Restoration of dharma is followed by purification of minds and renewal of society. A climactic massacre without renewal is an incomplete adaptation. [B3] [V1] [A2]
- Agni Purana 16.8 names Yajnavalkya in connection with Kalki's priestly role. [A1]
- Maru and Devapi survive as dynastic figures in Bhagavata 12.2; Kalki Purana elaborates their active reinstatement. [B3] [H1]

3. Exact Sanskrit anchors (selected; source-linked)

This is a practical selection of passages with independently authored English summaries. It is not a replacement for the complete Sanskrit editions, whose direct links are in the bibliography. Sanskrit is preserved in Devanagari. If the PDF is used for voice recording, review accents and sandhi against the cited edition.

V01 Yuga-boundary appearance

A

Bhagavata Purana 1.3.25 [B1]

अथासौ युगसन्ध्यायां दस्युप्रायेषु राजसु ।

जनिता विष्णुयशसो नाम्ना कल्किर्जगत्पतिः ॥

Meaning: At the junction of the ages, when kings behave like robbers, Kalki, the Lord of the world, will be born as the son of Vishnuyashas.

Game hook: The yuga-boundary prophecy; focus enemy behavior on predatory rulers.

V02 The corrosion of virtues

Bhagavata Purana 12.2.1 [B3]

ततश्चानुदिनं धर्मः सत्यं शौचं क्षमा दया ।

कालेन बलिना राजन्नङ्क्षयत्यायुर्बलं स्मृतिः ॥

Meaning: Through the force of time, righteousness, honesty, purity, patience, compassion, lifespan, strength, and memory steadily decline.

Game hook: The opening decline montage, with environment and governance indicators.

V03 Birth in Shambhala

Bhagavata Purana 12.2.18 [B3]

शम्भलग्राममुख्यस्य ब्राह्मणस्य महात्मनः ।

भवने विष्णुयशसः कल्किः प्रादुर्भविष्यति ॥

Meaning: Kalki is foretold to appear in the household of the eminent Brahmin Vishnuyashas in Shambhala village.

Game hook: Birth / family / homeland; not a modern map pin.

V04 Devadatta and the sword, part 1

A

Bhagavata Purana 12.2.19 [B3]

अश्वमाशुगमारुह्य देवदत्तं जगत्पतिः ।

असिनासाधुदमनमष्टैश्वर्यगुणान्वितः ॥

Meaning: The Lord mounts the swift horse Devadatta, bears a sword, and displays extraordinary divine capacities.

Game hook: Sword and mounted-combat pillar. Verse itself does not specify horse color.

V05 Impostor kings

A

Bhagavata Purana 12.2.20 [B3]

नृपलिङ्गच्छदो दस्यून्कोटिशो निहनिष्यति ॥

अथ तेषां भविष्यन्ति मनांसि विशदानि वै ।

वासुदेवाङ्गरागातिपुण्यगन्धानिलस्पृशाम् ।

पौरजानपदानां वै हतेष्वखिलदस्युषु ॥

Meaning: After the depredations end, the sanctifying breeze associated with Vasudeva makes the hearts of townspeople clear.

Game hook: Victory-to-renewal transition; use fragrance, soft light and calm.

V07 Arrival of the new age

A

Bhagavata Purana 12.2.23 [B3]

यदावतीर्णो भगवान् कल्किर्धर्मपतिर्हरिः ।

कृतं भविष्यति तदा प्रजासूतिश्च सात्त्विकी ॥

Meaning: With Kalki present as upholder of dharma, Krita/Satya Yuga begins and a virtuous society takes root.

Game hook: Finale must include renewal, not only defeat of enemies.

V08 God at the end of Kali

A

Bhagavata Purana 2.7.38 (closing line) [B2]

शास्ता भविष्यति कलेर्भगवान् युगान्ते ॥

Meaning: At the end of Kali, Bhagavan will appear to set things right.

Game hook: Cite full verse before putting this excerpt in a voiced scene.

V09 Yajnavalkya and Kalki

A

Agni Purana 16.8 [A1]

कल्की विष्णुयशः पुत्रो याज्ञवल्क्यपुरोहितः ।

उत्सादयिष्यति म्लेच्छान् गृहीतास्त्रः कृतायुधः ॥

Meaning: Kalki, son of Vishnuyashas, is depicted as armed and associated with Yajnavalkya as officiant; this is an early, compact version of restoration through conflict.

Game hook: Historical term mleccha is context-bound; never map it onto modern populations.

V10 Restoration of order

A

Agni Purana 16.9 [A1]

स्थापयिष्यति मर्यादां चातुर्वर्ण्यं यथोचिताम् ।

आश्रमेषु च सर्वेषु प्रजाः सद्गुणवर्त्मनि ॥

Meaning: The passage anticipates the re-establishment of an ethical social order and right conduct.

Game hook: Historical social categories are textual evidence, not a design instruction to discriminate.

V11 Krita returns

A

Agni Purana 16.10 [A1]

कल्किरूपं परित्यज्य हरिः स्वर्गं गमिष्यति ।

ततः कृतयुगं नाम पुरावत्संभविष्यति ॥

Meaning: After relinquishing the Kalki manifestation, Hari departs; the Krita age arrives again.

Game hook: Ending scene; version-sensitive when compared with detailed Kalki Purana.

V12 Promise of an appearance

B

Kalki Purana I.2.4 (check edition punctuation) [K1]

शम्भले विष्णुयशसो गृहे प्रादुर्भवाम्यहम् ।

सुमत्यां मातरि विभो पत्न्यां त्वन्निदेशतः ॥

Meaning: The expanded narrative speaks of manifestation in the house of Vishnuyashas, with Sumati as mother.

Game hook: Proofread scan before final Sanskrit voice performance; OCR variants exist.

भवन्तो बान्धवा देवाः स्वांशेनावतरिष्यथ ॥

Meaning: Kalki is said to work with four brothers/companions, and divine beings are asked to take portions of themselves into the world.

Game hook: The chapter then elsewhere names three elder brothers; treat number tension as edition-sensitive.

V14 Birth tithi

B

Kalki Purana I.2.15 [K1]

द्वादश्यां शुक्लपक्षस्य माधवे मासि माधवम् ।

जातं ददृशतुः पुत्रं पितरौ हृष्टमानसौ ॥

Meaning: The parents joyfully see their son born on the twelfth lunar day of the bright half of the month called Madhava.

Game hook: Calendar-sensitive; do not convert into a fixed Gregorian date.

V15 Vasudeva within human hearts

A

Bhagavata Purana 12.2.22 [B3]

तेषां प्रजाविसर्गश्च स्थविष्ठः सम्भविष्यति ।

वासुदेवे भगवति सत्त्वमूर्तो हृदि स्थिते ॥

Meaning: With Bhagavan Vasudeva established in hearts, the human community is renewed and grows again.

Game hook: The recovery of life and trust is an ending objective, not an optional side scene.

V16 The astronomical yuga marker

A

Bhagavata Purana 12.2.24 [B3]

यदा चन्द्रश्च सूर्यश्च तथा तिष्यबृहस्पती ।
एकराशौ समेष्यन्ति भविष्यति तदा कृतम् ॥

Meaning: A verse describing celestial bodies and the asterism Tishya gives an astronomical sign of the new Krita age.

Game hook: Cinematic sky motif only; do not invent a definitive modern astronomical calendar date.

V17 Maru and Devapi at Kalapa

A

Bhagavata Purana 12.2.37 [B3]

देवापिः शान्तनोर्भ्राता मरुश्चेक्ष्वाकुवंशजः ।
कलापग्राम आसाते महायोगबलान्वितौ ॥

Meaning: Devapi of Shantanu's family and Maru of the Ikshvaku lineage abide at Kalapa, endowed with great yogic power.

Game hook: Makes both lineage survivors scripture-grounded NPCs.

V18 Restoration by the two kings

A

Bhagavata Purana 12.2.38 [B3]

ताविहैत्य कलेरन्ते वासुदेवानुशिक्षितौ ।
वर्णाश्रमयुतं धर्मं पूर्ववत् प्रथयिष्यतः ॥

Meaning: At the end of Kali, the two kings return under Vasudeva's instruction and reestablish the inherited dharma order.

Game hook: Represent traditional social order historically in codex; do not assign gameplay status by birth or identity.

Non-metrical anchor: Vishnu Purana 4.24

The Vishnu Purana identifies Kalki as the divinely empowered descendant of Vishnuyashas of Shambhala, foresees the overthrow of harmful rulers and the recovery of right conduct, and describes people purified into the seed of a new Krita age. This is a prose passage in several presentations, so there is no invented sloka number here. [V1] [V2]

Epic parallel: Mahabharata Vana Parva

In the Markandeya-Yudhishtira discussion of future ages, Kalki arises in Shambhala in a Brahmin household and is supplied with astonishing means, restoring order as a new age begins. Chapter/section numbering varies across editions; the linked Ganguli section is an epic parallel, not one of the 18 Mahapuranas. [M1] [M2]

4. Coverage audit: all eighteen Mahapuranas

The table is a conservative audit of verified usable passages, not a claim that the other works contain no reference. "Not verified" means no verse was established to publication standard in this research pass. Named books follow one familiar set of eighteen; some traditional enumerations differ (for example Vayu and Shiva).

Mahapurana	Status	Grounded location / research status
Bhagavata	CONFIRMED	1.3.25; 2.7.38; 12.2.1-24; 12.2.37-39

Decision for the agent: import only CONFIRMED entries into the claim database. For other books use source_status = "unverified". Do not fabricate verses to fill the matrix.

5. The Kalki Purana: complete 35-chapter production map

Previously discussed models - verify imports

In earlier project discussions, Kalki, Parashurama and Dattatreya were reported as existing character models; the agent must verify these files, rigs, and import readiness before treating them as delivered assets. This dossier does not find a verified major Dattatreya episode in the selected Kalki Purana plot, so his model is optional rather than mandatory. Prioritize Shiva, Vishnuyashas, Sumati, Padma, Devadatta, Shuka, Kali, Kuthodari, Maru, Devapi and Shashidhvaja next.

Equipment registry

Key	Text-supported content	Rule for implementation
WPN_SWORD	Sword (Bhagavata 12.2.19); gem-handled sword from Shiva (Kalki Purana I.3)	Melee and mounted attacks are game mechanics, not prescribed move lists.
MOUNT_DEVADATTA	Swift Devadatta horse (Bhagavata 12.2.19); Shiva's gifted horse in later account	Horse-riding essential. Winged or mechanical horse variants are visual adaptation.
COMP_SHUKA	Suka parrot granted by Shiva in Kalki Purana I.3	Messenger identity supported; scouting camera adapted.
ASTRA_BRAHMASTRA	Use against Vikanja in Kalki Purana III.2, linked to Parashurama in Bhatt summary	Include only in late campaign, with minimal speculative VFX.
ASTRA_OTHER	No complete Kalki spell inventory verified in sources cited here	Lock pending line-by-line primary confirmation; do not attribute fantasy magic to scripture.
GEAR_ARMOR	Epic parallel mentions arms/armor being ready to hand	Armor designs may be artistic, not exact archaeological claims.

9. Gameplay systems grounded in the story

System	Textual grounding	Design notes (game-only)
Dharma restoration	Bhagavata 12.2.21-23; Vishnu 4.24	Region meter earned by stopping looting, defending civilians, reopening sanctuaries, distributing duties; do not rank identities.
Mounted sword combat	Bhagavata 12.2.19-20	Responsive riding, mounts, strike telegraphs and stamina. Fictional AI and hitpoints are G.
Guru training	Kalki Purana I.3	Parashurama supervises melee, archery, learning and ethics; no fight-to-the-death vs guru.
Divine gifts	Kalki Purana I.3	Shiva bestows three artifacts; show gift scene before use.
Companion narrative	Kalki Purana I.4-II.3	Shuka carries messages; provide readable quest logs.
Bosses and protected beings	Kalki Purana III.2, III.6-8, III.14	Kuthodari and Koka/Vikoka are enemies. Sulocana is a person to free.
Diplomatic reconciliation	Kalki Purana III.9-13	Shashidhvaja transforms from enemy into supporter; mark cutscene as fixed.
Dynastic succession	Bhagavata 12.2.37-39; Kalki Purana III.14-15	Maru/Devapi return; rebuilding is the win condition.

System	Textual grounding	Design notes (game-only)
End of dark age	Bhagavata 12.2.23-24; Agni 16.10	Day/night light, foliage, sky, population and music evolve; do not assign a Gregorian year.

*M09: mark as later sectarian textual history and use an adapted non-identity-targeted conflict, or place that passage in the in-game codex without combat.

10. Sensitive text, honest attribution and gameplay ethics

Read the historical text, do not convert it into a modern hit list. Some verses in the Agni Purana and later Kalki Purana use the terms mleccha, Bauddha and Jina polemically. The later narrative describes conflicts with named religious communities; those passages are historically significant, but not evidence that contemporary Buddhists, Jains, Muslims, foreigners, castes or other living communities are enemies. [\[A1\]](#) [\[H1\]](#) [\[K1\]](#)

- In the Purana game reference, record the actual textual description in a scholarly codex and let players inspect the attribution and chronology.
- For combat, target specific named mythical enemies or oppressive rulers identified by their deeds, not a religious practice, skin color, caste marker, dress, language, location or ancestry.
- If a source event is altered, set `adaptation_type` = "safety_and_story_reframing". Do not claim that the revised fight is an exact translation.
- Do not depict Parashurama, Shiva, Vishnu, Narayana or other revered deities as enemies simply to manufacture a boss battle.
- Avoid invented theological claims about Shesha, Sudarshana Chakra, Garuda, Dattatreya or exactly which cosmic beings incarnate as which Kalki associates.
- The late source also contains difficult household customs and succession episodes; show them as narrative and cultural evidence rather than gameplay imperatives.

11. Cinematic and dialogue writing protocol

Three explicit dialogue modes: `VERBATIM_SANSKRIT` (only source-checked lines), `ENGLISH_PARAPHRASE` (meaning tied to scripture), and `DRAMATIZED_ADAPTATION` (new writing). Every audio string needs `source_id`, `locator`, `language`, and `speech_type`.

Scene	Faithful content objective	Example ADAPTED dialogue (not quotation)
Shiva's boon	After worship, Kalki receives swift horse, Shuka and sword.	Shiva: "May these gifts serve the restoration of dharma."
Parashurama	Guru instructs Kalki in scripture and arms.	Parashurama: "Skill has worth only when joined with discernment."

Scene	Faithful content objective	Example ADAPTED dialogue (not quotation)
Maru and Devapi	They are called to restore righteous governance.	Kalki: "Your charge is to protect those who cannot protect themselves."
Kali war	Oppression is ended and dharma renewed.	Kalki: "Power without righteousness shall not endure."
Kanchanapuri	Sulocana is released from her curse.	Kalki: "A curse need not define your destiny."
Final dawn	Krita Yuga follows the decline of Kali.	Narrator: "The earth awakens to a gentler age."

12. Content schema for the coding agent

An accompanying machine-readable file Kalki_Game_Agent_Data.json includes the exact mission, chapter, character, region and reference records. A suggested cutscene schema is below.

```
{
  "scene_id": "SCN_M04_SHIVA_GIFTS",
  "source_tier": "B",
  "source_ids": ["K1", "H1"],
  "locator": "Kalki Purana I.3",
  "scriptural_event": "Shiva grants sword, horse and Suka bird",
  "adaptation_type": "cinematic_staging",
  "dialogue": [{"speech_type": "DRAMATIZED_ADAPTATION",
    "speaker": "CHAR_SHIVA", "text": "..."}],
  "required_assets": ["CHAR_SHIVA", "MOUNT_DEVADATTA",
    "WPN_SWORD", "COMP_SHUKA"],
  "target_policy": "deeds_not_identity"
}
```

Acceptance tests (must be checked by the agent)

- All 18 missions have implemented unlock conditions, start and completion events; no mission is an empty placeholder.
- Every cutscene and lore claim has an A/B/C/G tag and one usable reference URL; G has adaptation_type and no fabricated verse.
- The opening names Vishnuyashas and Shambhala; Sumati is correctly tagged B.
- Devadatta and sword are used; Shiva gifts are tagged B and occur after Parashurama training.
- Kuthodari, Kali, Koka-Vikoka and Shashidhvaja are not merged into one villain.
- Padma and Rama (Kalki consort) are not confused; personified Kali is not goddess Kali.
- The finale shows dharma restored and Satya/Krita Yuga beginning, not just defeated enemies.
- No enemy logic uses religion, ethnicity, caste, nationality, or other real-world identity labels.
- All Sanskrit lines used in audio undergo manual proofreading against the chosen base edition and are not generated from OCR alone.
- Gems, advanced moves, hero levels, tech weapons, cinematography and quest markers are described as game systems, not scripture.

13. Research gaps, editorial cautions and future verification

- A full critical collation of all extant Kalki Purana manuscripts was not performed; any pronunciation-ready Sanskrit beyond the quoted anchors requires proofing.
- The chapter map summarizes all 35 chapters/ranges, but does not reproduce the complete 6,100-verses (the figure mentioned in the received text) or all variant recensions.
- Only three Mahapuranas have verified passage-level Kalki entries in this dossier. The remaining 15 are marked NOT VERIFIED, not "Kalki absent".
- Sanskrit older and newer manuscript versions can differ in spelling, number, minor events, dates and chapter numbering.
- The Shri Kalki Purana internally references both a four-brother accompaniment and three elder brothers in the expanded biography; note a textual tension before designing party size.
- Do not infer exact birth year, bloodline of a current person, or location of a currently existing Shambhala from the narrative.
- The scripture does not require a science-fiction aesthetic, flying mechs, laser weapons, predefined boss HP, or an exact modern timeline. Such choices are game adaptations.
- The Bhagavata horse is named and swift, but its color is not supplied in the cited verses; a white horse is a familiar iconographic tradition.
- Yajnavalkya appears in Agni 16.8; do not silently substitute him for Parashurama as primary training guru in the later account.
- The expanded texts have sectarian layers and cultural practices that require thoughtful exposition and historical distancing.

15. Final instructions to the coding agent

PROJECT BRIEF - START HERE

Build a story-driven, third-person Bhagavan Kalki action-adventure following M00-M17 and the specified source hierarchy. Preserve the fixed sequence of birth in Shambhala, Parashurama apprenticeship, Shiva's gifts, Padma's narrative, the Himalayan demon quest, Maru/Devapi, the confrontation with personified Kali, Shashidhvaja's reconciliation, Sulocana's release, restoration of dharma, and the arrival of Krita Yuga. Every mission displays its source tier in an optional in-game codex. Never present invented dialogue as Sanskrit scripture. Ensure story and compassionate restoration are as prominent as spectacle.

Import the companion JSON as the initial data registry; use the asset IDs without renaming them. Build one complete vertical slice first: M03 + M04 + M10 (trainer, divine gifts, giant boss). Then add all remaining levels with functioning objectives, cutscenes, UI and save-state. Use the acceptance tests as a release gate. Honour the real-world identity protection rule throughout.
